iFunia Video Converter for Mac Now Supports macOS High Sierra with 30X Faster Conversion Speed

iFunia Studio announced a update to iFunia Video Converter for Mac which now supports macOS High Sierra with 30 times faster conversion speed and new features.

iFunia Studio, a professional developer of Mac OS multimedia software, is glad to announce a major update to its flagship product - iFunia Video Converter for Mac, a versatile media converter with features including converting video and audio files, ripping DVD movies, downloading videos and audios from YouTube and 1000+ other websites, editing videos, etc. Supporting the latest macOS High Sierra, the new version of iFunia Video Converter for Mac comes with 30x faster video conversion speed, 400+ preset formats and a brand new feature to easily burn video to DVD.

“macOS High Sierra is newly released,” said Amy Lu, iFunia Studio’s Product Manager. “APFS becomes the default file system in macOS, which means an overall faster and smoother performance of the operating system. We’d been testing macOS High Sierra since the beta testing began. Based on the testing experience, we managed to improve the conversion speed of iFunia Video Converter for Mac to 30 times faster. This, we believe, is something that our users will be very happy with. Another big change with this update is the brand new DVD burning feature. There are beautifully designed DVD menu templates for wedding video, family video and many other different occasions and events.”
